RESEARCH REPORTING SERIES

Research reports of the Office of Research and Development, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, have been grouped into five series. These five broad categories were established to facilitate further development and application of environmental technology. Elimination of traditional grouping was consciously planned to foster technology transfer and a maximum interface in related fields. The five series are:

1. Environmental Health Effects Research
2. Environmental Protection Technology
3. Ecological Research
4. Environmental Monitoring
5. Socioeconomic Environmental Studies

This report has been assigned to the ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION TECHNOLOGY series. This series describes research performed to develop and demonstrate instrumentation, equipment and methodology to repair or prevent environmental degradation from point and non-point sources of pollution. This work provides the new or improved technology required for the control and treatment of pollution sources to meet environmental quality standards.

EPA REVIEW NOTICE

This report has been reviewed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and approved for publication. Approval does not signify that the contents necessarily reflect the views and policy of the Agency, nor does mention of trade names or commercial products constitute endorsement or recommendation for use.

This document is available to the public through the National Technical Information Service, Springfield, Virginia 22161.

16. ABSTRACT The report lists mass emissions of criteria pollutants from stationary sources on a state-by-state basis. The list was prepared, using a computerized data base established for emissions of air pollutants from approximately 600 stationary source types in the combustion, organic materials, inorganic materials, and open source categories. (A source type is defined as a group of emission sources which have the same process and emission characteristics.) The state-by-state list is in two parts: a summary of state totals and state percentages for each criteria emission; and a report on each state, listing any source type which emits at least 1 percent of the state's total mass of emissions of any criteria pollutant.

PREFACE

The Industrial Environmental Research Laboratory (IERL) of EPA has the responsibility for insuring that pollution control technology is available for stationary sources to meet the requirements of the Clean Air Act, the Federal Water Pollution Control Act and solid waste legislation. If control technology is unavailable, inadequate, uneconomical or socially unacceptable, then financial support is provided for the development of the needed control techniques for industrial and extractive process industries. The Chemical Processes Branch of the Industrial Processes Division of IERL has the responsibility for investing tax dollars in programs to develop control technology for a large number (>500) of operations in the chemical industries.

Monsanto Research Corporation (MRC) has contracted with EPA to investigate the environmental impact of various industries which represent sources of pollution in accordance with EPA's responsibility as outlined above. Dr. Robert C. Binning serves as MRC Program Manager in this overall program entitled "Source Assessment," which includes the investigation of sources in each of four categories: combustion, organic materials, inorganic materials, and open sources. Dr. Dale A. Denny of the Industrial Processes Division at Research Triangle Park serves as EPA Project Officer. Reports prepared in this program are of three types: Source Assessment Documents, State-of-the-Art Reports, and Special Project Reports.

Source Assessment Documents contain data on emissions from specific industries. Such data are gathered from the literature, government agencies and cooperating companies. Sampling and analysis are also performed by the contractor when the available information does not adequately characterize the source emissions. These documents contain all of the information necessary for IERL to decide whether a need exists to develop additional control technology for specific industries.

State-of-the-Art Reports include data on emissions from specific industries which are also gathered from the literature, government agencies and cooperating companies. However, no extensive sampling is conducted by the contractor for such industries. Sources in this category are considered by EPA to be of insufficient priority to warrant complete assessment for control technology decision making. Therefore, results from such studies are published as

State-of-the-Art Reports for potential utility by the government, industry, and others having specific needs and interests.

Special projects provide specific information or services which are applicable to a number of source types or have special utility to EPA but are not part of a particular source assessment study. This special project report, "Source Assessment: State-by-State Listing of Criteria Pollutant Emissions," was prepared to list the mass emissions of criteria pollutants from stationary sources on a state-by-state basis.

ABSTRACT

This report provides a listing of mass emissions of criteria pollutants from stationary sources on a state-by-state basis. The state-by-state listing is presented in two parts: (1) a summary of state totals and state percentages for each criteria emission and (2) a report on each state listing any source type which emits at least 1% of the state's total mass of emissions of any criteria pollutant. A source type is defined as a group of emission sources which have the same process and emission characteristics.

The listing was prepared using a computerized data base established for emissions of air pollutants from approximately 600 stationary source types in the combustion, organic materials, inorganic materials, and open source categories. Emissions included in the data base consist of criteria pollutants (i.e., particulates, sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxides, hydrocarbons, and carbon monoxide) and noncriteria pollutants (such as trace metals and polycyclic organic matter). The data base is updated continuously to incorporate related new findings and covers a large number of source types; however, it is not an exhaustive list of all stationary emission points in the U.S.

This report was submitted in partial fulfillment of Contract 68-02-1874 by Monsanto Research Corporation under the sponsorship of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The updated listing in this report is similar to those generated for internal EPA use in July 1975 and January 1977. This report was prepared during May 1977.

SECTION I

INTRODUCTION

During the performance of the Source Assessment Program for EPA on Contract 68-02-1874, a computerized data base was established for emissions of air pollutants from approximately 600 stationary source types in the combustion, organic materials, inorganic materials, and open source categories. A source type is defined as a group of emission sources which have the same process and emission characteristics; e.g., rubber processing, beef cattle feedlots, etc. Emissions included in the data base consist of criteria pollutants (i.e., particulates, sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxides, hydrocarbons, and carbon monoxide) and noncriteria pollutants (such as trace metals and polycyclic organic matter).

The data base is updated continuously to incorporate related new findings from the investigation of individual emission source types on this program. Although the data base covers a large number of source types, it is not an exhaustive list of all stationary emission points in the U.S. The source list was selected to cover over 90% of the emissions in those areas under the original jurisdiction of EPA's Chemical Processes Branch at IERL-RTP. In other areas, such as metallurgical processes, some additional source types were later added to the data base to provide a better coverage of national emissions. However, this coverage is by no means as complete as that for the four categories selected for intensive study.

This report is a summary of the mass emissions of criteria pollutants from stationary sources on a state-by-state basis, generated from the above data base. Total mass emissions of criteria pollutants for each stationary source type on the national basis are listed in a separate report entitled "Overview Matrix." Emissions of noncriteria pollutants are not included in this report.

The state-by-state listing is presented in two parts: (1) a summary of state totals and state percentages for each criteria emission (Section II) and (2) a report on each state listing any source type which emits at least 1% of the state's total mass of emissions of any criteria pollutant (Section III). The following explanatory remarks are provided:

1. All emissions are expressed as 10^3 kg/yr (= metric ton/yr).

2. Every computer-printed page lists criteria pollutants coded as PART (particulates), SO2 (sulfur dioxide), NOX (nitrogen oxides, reported as NO_2), HC (hydrocarbons), and CO (carbon monoxide).

3. The last column, designated T, identifies the source category as follows:

Code	Category
1	Combustion Sources
2	Organic Materials Sources
3	Inorganic Materials Sources
4	Open Sources

4. Line one for each source type shows the annual mass of specific emissions. Line two shows the percent contribution of a particular criteria pollutant based on the total amount of that pollutant emitted from all stationary source types (included in the data base) in the given state.

5. All emissions data are rounded to four significant figures; percentages are rounded to three significant figures.

6. Source types emitting less than 1.0% of any criteria pollutant in a given state are not shown in the listing.

7. Hydrocarbon totals for each source type include unnamed hydrocarbons and all named nonmethane organic materials.

8. The organic materials category also includes the following sources: (1) petroleum refineries; (2) petroleum extraction; (3) gasoline distribution systems; (4) natural gas extraction; (5) natural gas distribution systems; and (6) natural gas processing.

9. For the inorganic materials category, all named particulate emissions have been included under the particulate column.

10. The state-by-state listing presented in this report is based on the data base contents as of 13 May 1977.

__Example:__

In Alabama:

a. Unpaved roads emit 14.27 x 10^8 kg/yr (14.27 x 10^5 metric tons/yr) of particulates; this represents 67.4% of the total particulates emitted by all stationary sources in the state;

b. Generation of electricity using external combustion of pulverized bituminous coal in dry bottom boilers emits 44.08 x 10^7 kg/yr (44.08 x 10^4 metric tons/yr) of SO_2; this represents 54.9% of the total SO_2 emitted by all stationary sources in the state;

c. Generation of electricity, as described in "b" above, also emits 10.56 x 10^7 kg/yr (10.56 x 10^4 metric tons/yr) of NO_x; this represents 39.4% of the total NO_x emitted by all stationary sources in the state;

d. Solvent evaporation-degreasing operations emit 10.04 x 10^7 kg/yr (10.04 x 10^4 metric tons/yr) of hydrocarbons; this represents 47.8% of the total hydrocarbons emitted by all stationary sources in the state; and

e. Pig iron production emits 32.92 x 10^8 kg/yr (32.92 x 10^5 metric tons/yr) of carbon monoxide; this represents 88.9% of the total carbon monoxide emitted by all stationary sources in the state.

SECTION II

SUMMARY OF STATE TOTALS

Data from the National Emissions Data System (NEDS) 1972 Emissions Report (1) and the following reference sources are included in the data base which was used to generate the state totals shown in this section and the state-by-state listing of emission source types shown in Section III.

16. ABSTRACT

The report lists mass emissions of criteria pollutants from stationary sources on a state-by-state basis. The list was prepared, using a computerized data base established for emissions of air pollutants from approximately 600 stationary source types in the combustion, organic materials, inorganic materials, and open source categories. (A source type is defined as a group of emission sources which have the same process and emission characteristics.) The state-by-state list is in two parts: a summary of state totals and state percentages for each criteria emission; and a report on each state, listing any source type which emits at least 1 percent of the state's total mass of emissions of any criteria pollutant.
